

Fabienne Ménard – Manutan Group Chief Finance Officer

As a graduate from EM Lyon, Fabienne started her career as a consultant at Arthur Andersen where she carried out various audit and financial consulting assignments within the framework of transactions on behalf of medium-sized and large companies.

She then joined the TDF group in 2001 as a corporate finance analyst. In the space of twelve years, she occupied several roles within the group including financial control, corporate finance and group performance director, finance business partner for the international division and management control director before being promoted to the position of finance, treasury, and investor relations director.

In 2013, she joined La Poste group as financial director of the digital branch and data marketing activities. Then in 2016 she joined the OGF group in the role of financial director and extended her scope of responsibilities to the sourcing and audit division.

In 2022, she became Manutan Group CFO and member of the Board of Directors, responsible for three divisions: Finance, Legal and Risk Management and Internal Audit. Her ambition is to contribute to the Group's growth by acting as a business partner to stakeholders and supporting activity management through finance, as well as accelerating the transformation towards greater efficiency and digitalisation.
